About Erin

Erin is a self-taught animal artist from Boulder, Colorado, who specializes in bringing her client's pets to life with pencils. She began drawing when she was very young and has progressed over the years in her favorite style, realism. After exploring multiple mediums she discovered that Prismacolor™ colored pencils were her favorite. Erin also likes to draw big cats in her spare time, and her all time favorite subject to draw is the Sumatran tiger. Her art is a job on the side of studying engineering in college; to earn a bit of extra money for tuition and keep doing a hobby that she loves. Art also brings her stress relief and time to calm down after working hard on her studies.
